

AWARD-WINNING NOVELIST TO LAUNCH SOUNDSCAPE STORYTELLING PODCAST

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL – August 20, 2021: Up-and-coming award-winning multi-genre novelist Craig Moody is set to launch a soundscape storytelling podcast—aptly titled Craig Moody's NOVELBITES. Craig Moody is the author of the multi-award-winning debut novel The '49 Indian and multi-award-nominated and winning follow-ups His Name Was Ezra, The Stars of Locust Ridge, and The Gold Rush Girls.

“I want to offer my stories beyond the book format,” Craig says. “In our fast-paced modern world, many people simply do not have the time or energy to read a novel. I want to remove the effort and deliver my storytelling in a fun, easy, and atmospheric way.”

Presented as a series of 25-minute episodes, Craig Moody's NOVELBITES will launch with one of Craig's many yet unpublished works. First up, The Devil and Mrs. Trembly, Craig's first horror novel, described by industry reviewers as “an unsettling and suspenseful horror tale that fits nicely within '70s horror aesthetics with its use of atmosphere, demonic psychological suspense, and sinister sexuality.”

Craig concludes, “Many people, including me, now consume entertainment media through various streaming platforms, so I want to offer my work in a way that is easily accessible and relevant to a contemporary audience. These smaller ‘bites’ of a larger work, enhanced with soundscape elements, will fit nicely into someone's time-demanding day, allowing them to escape into the stories while working, driving, or even at the gym. Served weekly, the episode format will prolong the enjoyment and suspense of experiencing a novel.”

The debut episode of Craig Moody's NOVELBITES will be available on all major streaming platforms on October 1, 2021.